THE PART OF THE SUNDAY SCHOOL

(BY H. E. VAN DUZER.)

"The Sunday school has come to be recognized by society as one of the strongest factors, if not the strongest, in the promotion of good citizenship and Christianity in the world today. That is why the great majority of people, whether church members or not, are ardent supporters of this institution."

"It is a recognized fact that the strongest man is he who is developed mentally, morally and physically. To develop the physical side of the child to the neglect of the mind and soul produces the mere animal; to develop the mental and the physical to the neglect of the soul or spiritual produces the criminal, but to attain to the highest degree of perfection in man the body, mind and soul must receive equal attention."

"The removal of the Bible from the public schools and the consequent handicap that is placed upon teachers in developing the moral or spiritual side of the child; in conjunction with the fact that the conditions of life today in society and in the home do not admit of as much attention to the training of the moral side of the child as in former years when our mode of life was more simple—these facts, I say, increase greatly the responsibility of the Sunday schools to make up for this spiritual loss in the public schools and in the home."

"This great truth of the lack of moral training in the public schools is today recognized by our leading educators, and has been most earnestly discussed in our state and national educational conventions, with the result that the schools are trying to accomplish this needed training by devoting a certain period for the moral training of the child, though means not taken directly from the Bible."

"The great Sunday school leaders of our country are thoroughly cognizant of existing conditions, and have given to the development and improvement of the Sunday schools much prayerful thought and study, with the result that we have in many of our Sunday schools today what is known as the 'graded system of lessons,' which carry the child from his third year to his 21st year, through a well devised system of moral instruction. 'Where he graduated from our Sunday schools today, using this system of study, he has a knowledge of the Bible, both as pertaining to its historical significance, as well as to its divine purpose in the world. It is a wonderful conception of great Christian minds to scientifically adapt the moral and spiritual instruction of the child to his ability to understand according to his years."

"The Broadway Sunday school among others is pursuing this system of study and on Sunday Sept. 24 will graduate 97 children from the various departments as follows: Beginners to primary; primary to juniors; juniors to intermediates and intermediates to seniors. Diplomas will be given to each child completing the course. There will be exemplification of the work from the various departments, supplemented by general school exercises."

"The rally and graduating exercises will occupy the time of the regular Sunday school hour, beginning at 9:15 a. m. and will be held in the Sunday school room. John Hauberg, president of the county Sunday school association, will make the rally day address, and Dr. Marquis will address the graduates. The parents and friends of the school are cordially invited to be present."

At Y. M. C. A.

The boys of the Y. M. C. A. hold their regular meeting Sunday afternoon at 2:30. The orchestra will furnish the music. Rev. G. H. Jones, of St. Louis, will give the address, and Mr. Jones and daughter will sing. Mr. Jones is a mission worker in St. Louis, and he has been invited to tell the boys of his work among the prisoners in the jail and workhouse in that city. The meeting is open to boys from 10 to 16.

The Men and Religion workers will be on the street again this evening, with their big dray. Instead of holding meetings in several places, they will hold only one service this evening, that one being on Second avenue at Seventeenth street. This meeting will begin about 7:30, and there will be addresses by several speakers, as well as music by the double quartet which sang so acceptably last week. The meeting will continue for about an hour.

The Tri-City Checker club will hold its first meeting of the season at the Y. M. C. A. tonight. An invitation has been extended to all checker players in the vicinity to attend and join in the play, and it is expected that a large number will accept. The hour for beginning is 7:30.

Literary and Musical Treat. Sunday evening the Rev. J. M. Lloyd, D. D. of Akron, O., who is now supplying the Edgewood Baptist church, corner of Fifth avenue and Forty-fourth street, Rock Island, will deliver his great lecture on "Handel the Master Musician," in which he will show the famous composer of the oratorio "Messiah" to be the greatest musical genius of the world at any time, illustrating Handel's life in Germany, his relationship to George, the elector of Hanover, how he went to England, the circumstances under which the Messiah was composed, the first time it was put on the stage at Dublin, how his father wanted to make him a lawyer, and how he was made a musician, Handel's blindness, his ambition and goal, how the old order of music passed away, and how the new came to stay, the falling of the statues at Westminster Abbey, London, when Handel's Halleluia chorus was sung. This lecture has been given by request as many as five times in the same church, and the last time it was given at the Y. M. C. A. auditorium, Akron, O., the place was packed to its utmost capacity, and an unanimous request made for the doctor to give this again in the same place. All lovers of music are earnestly requested to come and hear this address. "I Know That My Redeemer Liveth" from the Messiah will be sung as a solo.
